

WEAK KIDNEYS MADE STRONG

And Backache Stopped After a Short
Treatment with "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MOSES MURPHY

Moretown, Vermont, March 27th 1918.

"I am warranted in having the strongest faith in 'Fruit-a-tives' after receiving such wonderful benefits from them. For years, I was a sufferer from Kidney and Liver Complaints. My back ached; my liver was sluggish; and my whole system seemed out of order.

"Fruit-a-tives" was the only remedy to help me. They strengthened the kidneys, made my bowels move regularly and freed me of all the distress caused from the kidney trouble, constipation and indigestion.

A few weeks' treatment with 'Fruit-a-tives' made me feel as if I had a new lease on life, and I am glad to make known the great value of these Fruit Liver Tablets."

LOWELL

The sawmill at the Gallagher asbestos mines burned to the ground Wednesday night; several stacks of lumber and a pile of logs were also burned. An alarm was given and a large crowd responded and prevented a forest fire. The loss is estimated to be several thousand. There is a report that $2000 insurance was paid on the mill. The loss is sustained by Elizabeth Gallagher of Philadelphia and Wallace Warner.

The community of Lowell was saddened to learn of the sudden death of Mrs. Elsie M. Burgess on Thursday evening, July 7th, at 10.30. Mrs. Burgess was a quiet, unassuming woman of sterling character, who by her helpfulness and cheerful disposition endeared herself to the people about her. The keynote of her life was sounded by the text of the burial service, "She hath done what she could." Elsie M. Works, daughter of Benjamin and Calista Works was born in Cavendish, October 24, 1850, in which place she spent the early part of her life. August 16, 1873, she married David E. Burgess. Three children, May E., Clara L., and Jay E., blessed this union. In 1877 they moved to Lowell, in which town the rest of her life was spent. She leaves to mourn her loss besides her husband the two daughters, May E. Warner, a teacher in the Barton graded school, also four grandchildren and a host of friends. The only son, Jay E., died at the age of five. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Cady, Ph. D., D., assisted by a former pastor, Rev. Hurd, of Watertown, N. Y.

CARD—We wish to thank the relatives and friends for help and sympathy received during the illness and death of our loved one, also for flowers and many kindnesses shown at that time. May you all get back your mete as you have measured when the need comes to you.

D. E. Burgess,
May E. Warner,
Clara L. Burgess.

Montpelier—Reports are being received at the department of agriculture that hemorrhagic septicemia is breaking out in different portions of the state in herds of cattle. In Bristol and Caledonia county reports have been forwarded to the department. The general appearance of the cattle after they die is that they have been hit by lightning and often the farmers attribute their death to lightning, when in reality it is the above disease that killed them. This is a soil germ disease, which the cattle contract in dry times by grazing for food, a certain condition which does not develop in the normal summer, but only when continued dry weather prevails, and germinate very fast with the result then only in localities where certain kinds of soil exists. The microbes that the cattle die almost as quickly as they eat the grass.

Rutland—Conductor Dennis Cutting of the Rutland Railway Light and Power company was knocked down and received a severe pounding by three or four passengers on the last trip of the south belt line Saturday night. The conductor claims he attempted to stop the offensive language of the young men there being women in the car, and that when he laid hold of one man three others set upon him.

Another Golden Rule.

Let us be very gentle with our neighbors' failings, and forgive our friends their debts as we hope ourselves to be forgiven.—Thackeray.

State Courses for Teacher Training

The State Department of Education announces that it has established and will conduct during the coming year three one and two-year training courses for teachers, located at Burlington, in connection with the University of Vermont; at Castleton in the former Normal school plant, and at Lyndon Center, in connection with Lyndon Institute. These courses, practically identical in subjects and instruction offered, are so located as to serve conveniently all parts of the state.

Each course will have an able and sufficiently large corps of instructors and abundant practice facilities. Mr. Bennett C. Douglass, head of the Department of Pedagogy of the University of Vermont, will be principal of the Burlington course; Miss Caroline S. Woodruff of the Castleton course, and Miss Eliza C. Allen of the course at Lyndon Institute, with Mr. O. D. Mathewson, head of the Institute, co-operating. These are all well-known educators in Vermont, and will be assisted by able instructors.

Board and dormitory accommodations will be provided for students on very reasonable terms.

The department will also conduct at least twenty-one one-year teacher training courses in connection with high schools and academies throughout the state. These courses will be substantially the same as the first year course at Burlington, Castleton and Lyndon Center. For those who find it more convenient these courses offer a fine initial training which may be completed later in the two-year courses, if desired.

Tuition, board and supplies are free at any of these two or one-year courses to all applicants qualified for admission who agree to teach in the public schools of Vermont for a period of at least as long as the duration of the course taken.

Full information concerning admission requirements, courses of study, certification granted, expenses, etc., can be secured by applying to the principals of the two-year courses or by addressing Miss Katherine Aazee, director of teacher training, State House, Montpelier. A prospectus will be sent on inquiry. The one-year courses in Orleans county are at Barton, Derby and North Troy.

Waterford—The long drawn out process to free the toll bridge over the Connecticut river between Littleton and Waterford came to a successful conclusion Saturday night when the original owners of the bridge received from the States of Vermont and New Hampshire the purchase price agreed upon and hereafter the bridge will be free to all passengers and vehicles. Vermont has had for several years a toll bridge commission one of its members being John G. Roy working with the county commissioners of New Hampshire to buy the bridge. Several conferences have been held in the past between these two bodies, one of them being attended by the governors of two States and all obstacles having been removed the bridge is now free. There are four other bridges on the river between the two States yet to be made free to travel.
